KEVIN MENDELSON Partner

Kevin is an experienced executive having investment, financial and operational management, and commercialization roles in early stage technologies. He was a founding member of the investment team at JumpStart Inc., a northeast Ohio venture development firm that provides entrepreneurial support, corporate innovation strategy, and early stage investment capital for regional technology companies, and currently serves there as a healthcare Venture Partner.

Previously, Kevin led finance and corporate development at CardioInsight Technologies, a medical device company that developed and commercialized a unique non-invasive electrocardiographic mapping technology to treat atrial fibrillation. CardioInsight was a spin out from Case Western Reserve University, co-founded by JumpStart and Draper Triangle Ventures, and ultimately acquired by Medtronic. Kevin also served in management roles in product development and finance at Athersys, a publicly traded biopharmaceutical company developing novel stem cell, small molecule and protein therapies.

Kevin holds an MBA from Case Western Reserve University's Weatherhead School of Business and earned a BS in Zoology and Economics from Miami University in 1996.
